

The Karmic Insight Report for

Harrison Ford

July 13, 1942

11:41 AM

Chicago, Illinois

MatthewsAstrology.com

818-427-6870

From an esoteric point of view your birth chart is a portrait of your soul's intention for this lifetime, the lessons to be learned, qualities to develop, problems to be resolved, service to be rendered. From that perspective, the choices one makes in one's daily life have reverberations that may last beyond even this lifetime.

This report is written to help you clarify your lessons and goals, illuminate your struggles, and encourage you to move in the direction of your true purposes.

The best to you on your journey...

Sun	20	Can	38	Pluto	4	Leo	56
Moon	22	Can	46	N. Node	4	Vir	56
Mercury	1	Can	12	Asc.	2	Lib	46
Venus	18	Gem	36	MC	3	Can	14
Mars	18	Leo	19	2nd cusp	2	Sco	08
Jupiter	7	Can	34	3rd cusp	1	Sag	22
Saturn	8	Gem	08	5th cusp	4	Aqu	11
Uranus	3	Gem	13	6th cusp	3	Pis	21
Neptune	27	Vir	25

Tropical Koch War Time observed
 GMT: 16:41:00 Time Zone: 6 hours West
 Lat. and Long. of birth: 41 N 51 87 W 39

Aspects and orbs:

Conjunction	:	5	Deg	00	Min	Trine	:	4	Deg	00	Min
Opposition	:	5	Deg	00	Min	Sextile	:	3	Deg	00	Min
Square	:	4	Deg	00	Min	Quincunx	:	3	Deg	00	Min
Conjunct Asc	:	3	Deg	00	Min Above,	5	Deg	00	Min Below

Chapter 1: The Moon

The placement of the Moon in your birth chart is very significant from a karmic perspective, as it indicates the accumulated karmic tendencies, both positive and negative, that you carry from your past incarnated experiences on earth.

While the Sun reveals your intended purposes and lessons for this present life cycle, the MOON represents what you have already done and developed, hence, what is instinctive and natural to you, and what you tend to do over and over again. Your childhood is also reflected in the Moon's placement, as it is through those childhood circumstances that any unresolved past-life issues are re-stimulated. Your subconscious predisposition is indicated by the Moon's position. It is the psychic imprint of the past. The nodes of the Moon describe behavior patterns from the past, as well as delineating a direction out of outworn or overdone behaviors and habits.

Moon in Cancer:

You instinctively respond to stress by retreating, withdrawing to protect yourself, or if at all possible, by avoiding the trouble altogether. Exquisitely sensitive to the psychic and emotional currents around you, and acutely alert to nuances and indications of potential threat, you are apt to "run for cover" when emotionally challenged.

A strong home base is vital to your sense of security, well-being, and ability to function smoothly in other areas of your life. You have an intense aversion to disharmony in your home or family circle, and separations between family members affect you profoundly, and permanently. (It has been said that elephants, women, and anyone with the Moon in Cancer NEVER FORGETS). For good or ill, your relationship with your mother, and the emotional tone of your earliest years, is all-powerful in your life. Whether or not you recognize it consciously, your attachment to her is very, very strong. Often there are elements of mutual dependency or a blurred sense of boundaries between the two of you. You are apt to have been "mama's girl" or "mama's boy", and the normal developmental thrust to push away in order to establish yourself as an individual in your own right may have been an especially hard transition for you, or accomplished incompletely. (Sometimes, also, it is the father and not the mother who bonds with and nurtures the child, and who is thus the object of attachment discussed here).

The need for mother and mothering is so deep-seated in you that as an adult you may seek this type of relationship with your mate, or friends, or spiritual mentor. Many a Moon in Cancer person is drawn to the Goddess aspect of the divine or to a female teacher they refer to as "Mother". Becoming a mother yourself may be a fierce longing in you, too, for you also have the capacity to give the support and tenderness you hunger for yourself. (Even some men with Moon in Cancer confess a particularly poignant, wistful envy of women's ability to conceive, birth, and breast feed their children. When they are being really honest they also admit that they are incredibly jealous of the baby at times! If you are one of those men, you may take comfort in the fact that your maternal instincts and ability to nurture your children are at least as good as any woman's and probably better, as this moon position indicates many female lifetimes and much past experience as mother and nurturer).

While parent/child relations are enormously important to you, it would be wise for you not to direct your entire emotional focus on your children or to rely solely on them to satisfy your great yearning for emotional closeness and union. You have a tendency to smother.

Emotional dependency is a major concern of yours, and you are apt to struggle against regressing into babyish behavior and being too needy. Your subconscious wish to be taken care of is deeply ingrained. At times you may attempt to completely deny these powerful feelings (and, once again, if you are a man society's dictates prohibit them), but this is apt to backfire on you. It is most desirable for you to learn healthy ways to care for yourself and how to be close to people without clinging or setting up your partner to be a parent - substitute. Until you establish your own inner center and your own individual identity, worry, anxiety, and feelings of insecurity may be emotional habits of yours. However, even at your finest, you will probably always be a rather moody creature, with fluctuating emotions and a constant ebb and flow of feeling, ups-and-downs. For you, emotional balance means knowing how to ride the waves, rather than aiming for some tranquil, unchanging state.

Moon SemiSquare Saturn:

You are bringing into your current lifetime subconscious memories of harsh discipline, emotional deprivation, separations from family and other sources of security, which prevented you from being properly nourished and cared for. You may be responding to these experiences in different ways, for instance, you may need tremendous amounts of reassurance and supportive love from the people around you in order to feel that you can trust them. You may cling to family, traditions, routines, and structures. You may have persistent underlying feelings of sadness or loss without recognizing their source. You may concentrate on your work and practical responsibilities (to neglect your emotions and personal life). You may isolate yourself and feel alone, or refuse to be alone, becoming fearful and anxious without others nearby. You may be needy and insecure about your worth, or hide all of your needs for love and affirmation behind a mask of cool indifference. On a physical level, you may have an extremely sensitive stomach, poor digestion, and an inability to take certain foods.

Much of this is based on your subconscious belief that whatever occurred in the past was your fault (even though you may have been innocent), and that love, security, and comfort are scarce commodities which can be withdrawn from you at any time. In this lifetime you will be working with these patterns, learning to nurture and care for yourself. There may be periods of aloneness and singularity which instead of being lonely and isolated can be healing, giving you time to do quiet, contemplative activities that nourish you.

These strict disciplines you were burdened with in the past need to be balanced with gentleness. You are much too hard on yourself, and you tend to see criticism and blame where none is intended. Above all, self-acceptance and cherishing yourself, regardless of your flaws or supposed past errors, is a major lesson in this current cycle.

North Node in Virgo:

In your incarnational past you tended to be idealistic and imaginative, and longed to escape the difficulties of ordinary physical life. Your growth direction now is to learn to be more clear and focused, and to ground your charitable impulses in some sort of practical service.

North Node in 12th house:

You may find that your past tendencies are activated particularly in your job, the daily tasks you perform, and they also strongly influence your health for good or ill. Exploring the deeper, hidden dimensions of yourself (through dream work, hypnosis) or purposefully engaging the parts of yourself you consider to be weak or unacceptable are also an important part of your growth direction in this lifetime.

Chapter 2: The Sun

The Sun in your birth chart represents the primary creative thrust for this lifetime, those qualities you are to develop (or further develop) and express, and your current life focus. This may be in harmony with your instincts and your emotional habits, or along completely different lines. The Sun represents your conscious identity in this lifetime.

Sun in Cancer:

In terms of soul development, your capacity for deep emotional attachment and emotional union, for merging on a feeling level, and for sympathetic understanding and compassionate feeling, are among your primary concerns in this lifetime.

Your ability to discover and express who you are revolves around the themes of nurturing and of creating a home and deep roots, which will nourish you and give you confidence.

In the simplest possible form, this could be expressed as having a family and centering your life around caring for your mate and children, basking in the warmth and closeness and security of home. There are other ways for the same basic impulse to be expressed, however. Regardless of your gender and whether or not you have flesh-and-blood children or consider yourself very domestic, you do need to "mother" (nurture, support, take care of, protect, cherish) and to have a sense of belonging, a sense of family, and a sense of continuity with the past. The family however, can be a spiritual family or group of close friends; the home, an inner home or base of security you create deep within; and the mothering you do may be through your work instead of with your own kin. This is very likely to be the case, in fact, if your childhood and family of origin was not especially nurturing or close. Your work may directly involve children or providing emotional support or literally feeding people, but it may be more subtle than that. For instance, if you are a business person, you may feel that your employees and customers (especially the loyal, long time ones) are your family and try to take care of them as such. You care about their personal lives and feel for their troubles, and like a good mother you see them through tough times. Or, to give another example, as an artist you may regard your "babies" with such affection and attachment that it is hard for you to sell them. You want to make sure they go to "a good home"! Whatever form it takes, this emotional attachment and sympathetic feeling are the core of your life. There are pitfalls and potential difficulties on this path, such as, becoming overly dependent on being needed and thus unable to graciously let go when the "child" outgrows you, living in or holding on to the past (including old hurts and grudges), and feeling deeply threatened by "outsiders", non-family members, foreigners. You also tend to be powerfully conditioned by your early home life and your experience of being mothered. If your own nurturing as a child was unsatisfying, you may wander through life "on empty", desperately seeking the love and security you missed as a child. Or, instead, to rigidly deny that you need anybody, building protective walls around yourself to keep out the fearful world. Afraid of having your tender insides exposed, as well as of your own emotional neediness, you may over eat or over drink to pacify your longing. Becoming obsessively interested in the past or with money as a form of security are also ways you express yourself when you are out of balance. An overly close, smothering relationship to mother, or to "the way things are done in our family" can also prevent you from becoming a full-fledged individual in your own right, the proverbial cutting of the apron strings being rather difficult for you.

Sometimes, to fill your need for roots and belonging and a meaningful connection to the past, you may choose to align your-self with a period in history with which you feel a deep resonance, a particular culture or subculture, or a spiritual lineage of teachers. This conscious choosing of "family" or "home" may be one of the most positive acts you can do for yourself.

Another aspect of your ability to feel sympathetically and to emotionally merge with others is that you are very "psychic". Learning to listen to your deeper intuition and to use your psychic sensitivity may well be a significant aspect of your life path.

Sun Conjunct Moon:

This lifetime is very much a continuation of the lessons, issues, and themes that you have been immersed in for a number of incarnations. You are also apt to be surrounded by many of the same souls that you have been incarnating with over a series of lives, and may well have been born into the same family that you have been a part of before. As such you are likely to experience a certain level of emotional comfort, internal equilibrium, and flowingness, as you are not being asked or required to forge a path along very different lines than those to which you are already accustomed. However, your roots and/or forces from your past tend to totally color your life (for instance, through a very influential parent, certain familiar habits and traditions, or even a religion that you have dedicated yourself to and identified with). It would be easy for you to let these past influences dominate your present life. It is your task to learn to distinguish and define your unique self, and to express your individuality within the context of your background. However, for you, the old cliché that "the apple does not fall far from the tree" is quite apt.

Chapter 3: Rising Sign

The point that was on the eastern horizon at the moment of your birth is called the ASCENDANT, or rising sign. While the Sun describes your conscious direction and current life focus, and the Moon your subconscious predisposition and past, the Ascendant indicates a way of being that transcends and embraces past, present, and future. It describes the way you engage and merge with the outer world and how you bring through into life the energies depicted by the Sun, the Moon, and the rest of your birth chart. Everything is filtered through the Ascendant from an esoteric point of view. It indicates your soul's function and thus a key part of your destiny.

Libra Rising:

Your soul function involves establishing balance, and harmony in your world, and an awareness of beauty, of relationship, of style, and how things fit or blend together. Reconciling opposites and finding "the middle way" is your path, and the fine arts of compromise, negotiations and cooperation are key elements. You are the dove, the diplomat, the peacemaker, the friend; partnership and personal relations are your forte.

Libra Rising and Venus in Gemini:

Your ruling planet, Venus, is in the friendly and very sociable sign of Gemini: social relations and facilitating communication and understanding between people is truly your forte. Your innate curiosity about and interest in others, and your ability to speak their language, are gifts that enable you to fulfill your soul purpose as a messenger, mediator, or teacher. Words, language, or music is your forum.

Chapter 4: Saturn, Your Achilles Heel

Karmically considered, the placement of Saturn in your birth chart indicates where your energetic blockages, weaknesses and fears lie, and the areas of your life where the most concentrated effort and discipline will be required to master and overcome them. Yet it also points to the aspects of life which can become your greatest strength if you are willing to face your fears and difficulties honestly, and work with them patiently.

Saturn in Gemini

You tend to feel inadequate about your own intelligence and mental capabilities, and your self-doubt in this regard may be due to an inadequate education, or to the fact that your mind functions less fluidly and quickly than others. You need time to really absorb new information, and it may seem that you struggle to learn what other people grasp much more easily than yourself. Studying and learning may be hard work for you, but paradoxically you may be an excellent scholar since you also work much harder at it (believing as you do that you are not as bright or sharp as other people). You do have the capacity and the need to discipline your mind and to order your thoughts. However, your ability to flow intellectually is inhibited, making you feel ill at ease with purely airy, conceptual ideas or with anything that is intangible and open to personal interpretation or debate. You may find it difficult to speak and communicate freely. (Writing may be easier for you than talking, as you will be able to take your time and organize your thoughts). On another level, your inability to breathe freely and intellectually could also be shown as difficulty with your lungs and respiration (allergies, asthma, or frequent bouts of bronchitis, etc.).

You may need to prove your intellectual abilities to yourself by pursuing a rigorous course of education or mastering some intellectually demanding field.

Saturn in 9th house:

Much of your personal struggle lies in the realm of ethics, morals, faith, ultimate beliefs and discovering an over arching ideal or truth on which to base your life. In your quest for answers to some very broad questions, there may well be periods of great doubt, skepticism, even cynicism or hopelessness, because your faith will be repeatedly tested. Seeking a larger perspective in response to personal losses, setbacks or other painful experiences is apt to be a significant part of this (i.e. "Why do bad things happen to good people?"). You will not be able to slide by without deeply questioning and critically examining your basic assumptions about life, what is true for you personally, as opposed to what is held to be true according to popular sentiment or whatever religious teachings you may have imbibed while young. You will have to hammer out a philosophy of life based on your own inner searching and life experience. This may be a lonely road, something you have to do on your own to a large extent, without the aid or crutch of outside authority.

If you turn away from the challenge of finding meaning in the midst of life's thorns; if say, you become disenchanted with any sort of spiritual quest at all, you may find yourself chronically depressed or afraid to take any real risks in life. Ultimately, the question you must answer is what or who do I trust?

One pitfall for you is a tendency to become narrow, humorless, rigid and dogmatic in your convictions. Beware of trying to be the conscience or law-giver for other people or imposing heavy, moralistic guilt upon others (or yourself) for mistakes. The following quote may be especially apt for your particular growth process: "Religion is for people who do not want to go to hell. Spirituality is for people who have been to hell and do not want to go back".

Saturn Conjunct Uranus:

You carry tremendous inner tension which you will have to work to resolve and harmonize in order to have any peace in your life or any ongoing success in either your personal relationships or your life ambitions. You have what some would call a "disobedient spirit": habitual and chronic irritability and rebelliousness, a refusal to accept or cooperate with any kind of outward authority, and perhaps most troublesome of all, a tendency to blame others (the government, the system, your parents, your ex-) for your discontent. Because you tend to resent any kind of restrictions or limitations (including those imposed simply by living a "normal" orderly existence), you may periodically revolt, and any sort of stability, security, or seniority you may have acquired is badly damaged or destroyed. Or, your inner stress may be expressed in physical symptoms such as grinding your teeth, TMJ, headaches, or imbalances caused by disrupted rhythms. Your karmic pattern is to operate out of an extreme, polarized, all-or-nothing position. You may believe you must either conform and be an automaton or totally disregard convention, tradition, and the old order. On the other hand, you may identify entirely with the established orthodoxy and feel you must repress any impulses toward change or unconventionality, that it is somehow dangerous to experiment or deviate in any way. You may see-saw between these two extremes. Transitions tend to be especially difficult for you. You do not want to let go AND you want to sever your ties entirely. To begin harmonizing these patterns and healing your life, decide first of all to stop blaming others or the way the world is for your discomfort. Make friends with "the enemy", those parts of life you have been polarized against. On a physical level, regular, rhythmic exercise such as bicycling or swimming, and receiving massage therapy to release emotional and muscular tension can be helpful.

Chapter 5: The Hard Aspects

The following is a description of your MAJOR LIFE CHALLENGES, both in terms of energies you are to learn to develop and express in a positive way, and those which are the result of struggles and unresolved karmic issues which you have brought into this life.

Mercury Square Neptune:

Part of your purpose and challenge in life is to translate your particular vision and subtle sensitivity into some form that speaks to others. You are attuned to the muse, whether you are a musician, poet, artist, spiritual seeker, or a psychically gifted counselor. Your mind does not function in a strictly logical, linear way and you may have difficulty ordering your life, understanding boundaries, or functioning in a defined and reliable way.

Your mind functions primarily in the world of images which can be either a rich source of creativity or a confusing maze of self-created fantasies. Learning to differentiate between dream and reality is imperative. Mental clarity and self-discipline, strict avoidance of mind-altering substances, honesty with self and others, and seeking feedback from an objective person when you are feeling fuzzy or confused, is necessary in order to make the most of your gifts.

You are open to the phenomena of "channeling". At your finest, you will feel yourself to be a channel or conduit for "magic" to happen, artistically or otherwise.

No Retrograde planets and no hard aspects except to Sun or Moon:

When daily pressures are not intense, you sometimes fail to challenge yourself sufficiently, which results in a lack of stimulation. You can hold yourself back from opportunities to grow, or fail to awaken the latent creative abilities that you have, by accepting things the way they are.

Chapter 6: Soft Aspects

The following is a description of your GIFTS and STRENGTHS which can help you work with your major life challenges. These are abilities and qualities of heart, mind, and soul which are quite natural to you. You probably take them for granted. Because these represent the lines of least resistance for you, you may rely too much upon them at times; hence, there are some cautions suggested. Still, these are the areas where good flows into your life and/or where you have considerable inner resources.

Venus Sextile Mars:

Actively creating harmony and beauty through your work, art, or with people is part of what you are here to do. You have developed a harmonious coordination between the masculine and feminine energies within yourself; thus, you combine strength with grace, power with elegance, decisiveness and effort with pleasure, passion with tenderness and sensitivity. You have a romantic soul.

Some positive expressions of this pattern might include athletic activities that have an aesthetic appeal, such as figure skating, or artistic endeavors that are active, such as performing dance or opera singing.

Actively bringing people together in some way, for mutual pleasure and benefits, is also one of your gifts.

Uranus Sextile Pluto:

You and many of your generation have a group karma that involves introducing change, innovation, revolution, and progressiveness into the world around you. Rather than being disruptive or confrontational, you are successful in bringing about positive change without force.

As a group, you tend to believe that change is good and may be in more of a hurry than others are. You adapt well to the crisis involved in profound transformations, and can help those around you accept and adapt to it as well.